

International Max Planck Research School on Adapting Behavior in a Fundamentally Uncertain World

October 13, 2009

Dear Elinor Ostrom,

It is with such a pleasure and joy that we now may congratulate you to the honor of being a Nobel Prize laureate. Your work, your talks, and our meetings inspired not only us but the world.

We are extremely proud of having been part of joint research, discussions, and intellectual exchange. Your visits at the Max Planck Institute of Economics, your openness to welcome students from our joint doctoral school (IMPRS Uncertainty), as well as your passion to contribute to the benefit of the society have been remarkable.

With kindest regards from all students and all the faculty of the IMPRS Uncertainty – Jena, Bonn, Berlin, Jerusalem, and Bloomington.

IMPRS Uncertainty

IMPRS Uncertainty
Tel. (49) 3641 686 677
Fax (49) 3641 686 623
imprs@econ.mpg.de

Kahlaische Straße 10
07745 Jena, Germany
www.econ.mpg.de